

Provisional Learning

During our study sessions, I occasionally speak of 'provisional' learning, or 'provisional' understanding. What do I mean by this?

If we jump into a deep river, we instantly drenched, and all at once, we are wet from head to toe. The learning process is more akin to walking in fine, misty rain, and the first thing we learn about anything -is rarely the last. Learning is gradual process, and it simply cannot be hurried.